Personal Profile

I am a highly organised and detail-focused individual with over 10-years-experience in customer service, data handling, and client communication across a range of fast-paced environments.

From my experience I am confident handling client enquiries via phone, email, and in person, with proven ability to maintain accurate records, process payments, and prioritise workloads effectively in some of the most challenging customer-facing roles. I am known for a professional approach, strong attention to detail, and ability to deliver high standards of support and customer care. With supervisor experience, running my own small business, along with working in a team among various roles, I am able to provide an understanding and helpful service for all age ranges and those with disabilities.

I am enthusiastic and keen for new experiences and progression within a role, and ready to apply transferable skills within a business for a better work- life balance.
